Dear Montana Hunter,

Montana law specifies that ALL hunters must obtain landowner permission before hunting on private property.

In order to help hunters comply with the law, Fish, Wildlife, & Parks (FWP) staff prepared this directory of landownership maps to assist hunters in trying to identify landowners and boundaries. Although maps are good tools, hunters should also contact area landowners and land management agency staff to ensure that map information is correct.

Ultimately, the key to maintaining Montana hunting access revolves around hunters and landowners establishing good relationships and communicating with each other. I hope this guide helps facilitate that communication.

Good luck afield.

M. Jeff Hagener

Director

Understanding the law:

Section 87-3-304, MCA, reads:

“Landowner’s permission required for hunting.

(1) Every resident and nonresident must have obtained permission of the landowner, the lessee, or their agents before hunting on private property.

(2) Except for hunting big game animals on private property, a person in possession of a valid hunting license who violates this section shall, upon conviction for a first offense, be fined an amount not to exceed $25.”

NOTE: While conviction of the first offense involving any animal other than big game animals shall result in a fine not to exceed $25, any subsequent offense (including first offense involving the hunting of big game animals) may result in penalties that include:

- a fine not less than $50 or more than $1,000, and/or;
- imprisonment in county jail for not more than 6 months;
- forfeiture of the privilege to hunt, fish, or trap in Montana for a specified time;
- forfeiture of the privilege to use state lands for recreational purposes for a specified time.

ALL HUNTERS are required to obtain landowner permission before hunting on private property, regardless of game animals (birds and mammals) hunted.

ASK FIRST to Hunt on Private Property!

Maps identifying ownership of land in Montana are available from various county, state and federal agency offices. Private land ownership (by owner's name) is generally identified in county plat books and/or county conservation district maps. These documents may be available only through personal review at the county courthouse, or there may be copies available for purchase. Public land ownership (by agency name) is generally identified in maps produced by the appropriate land management agency.

Map information is only as current as the most recent date of printing, so users are advised to view maps as tools to identify potential land ownership, but to verify actual ownership through personal contact with private landowners and land management agency officials.
